

CV Sandra Blome

Born January 24th 1976 in Herne, Germany

Education:

10/1996 – 07/2002

Qualification: Graduation (State Exams) and licensure as veterinarian University of Leipzig, Faculty of Veterinary Medicine, veterinary medicine

08/2002 – 05/2006

Qualification: Dr. med. vet.
University of Veterinary Medicine Hannover, Institute of Virology, Department of Infectious Diseases, thesis on the "Pathogenesis of Classical Swine Fever: Analysis of Coagulation Disorders", passed with distinction

07/2002-01/2011

Qualification: (Chamber) Recognised Specialist in Virology

Work experience

06/2004 – 06/2008

Senior scientist at the EU and OIE Reference Laboratory for CSF, University of Veterinary Medicine
Hannover, Department of Infectious Diseases, Institute of Virology, Buenteweg 17, 30559 Hannover, Germany

Position: Laboratory supervisor (routine CSF diagnosis), execution of animal experiments (research, production of reference material, vaccine potency testing), organisation of international workshops on CSF and Annual Meetings of National Swine Fever Laboratories, performance of inter-laboratory comparison tests

06/2008 – to date

Senior scientist at the Friedrich-Loeffler-Institut, Institute of Diagnostic Virology, Suedufer 10, 17493 Greifswald – Insel Riems, Germany

Position: Deputy head of the Institute of Diagnostic Virology, head of the German national reference laboratory for classical swine fever (CSF) and African swine fever (ASF), routine diagnosis, execution of animal experiments (research, production of reference material, vaccine potency testing), performance of national inter-laboratory comparison tests